

I urge you to retain regulation of broadband providers. It is essential to retain competition amongst providers, and the small independent providers that I deal with give vastly superior service and quality. Deregulation would inevitably cause the large providers to stop extending service to small providers, ending competitive pressure to improve service and quality.